In 1877 the West End street railways of Boston carried 50,000,000 passengers. The past year they carried 200,000,000. It wasn't the increase of Boston's population that did it, but rapid transit by electric railways.

Delaware is a little State, and the women who have an aspiration to practice law will probably come to the conclusion that it is also a mean little State. The Supreme Court has barred women out of the bar on the ruling that lawyers are State officers and that as no woman can vote for members of the Legislature no woman can be a State officer, and therefore no woman can be a lawyer in that State. This looks like a constructively put up job against the women.

The fact that Canadian officials are coming to Washington to talk over the seal business and other affairs appertaining to this country and the Dominion, would seem to indicate that they have an opinion over there that they are getting to that point where they are competent to manage business for themselves without any assistance from across the sea.

There is an old saying about the "hair of the dog" being "good for the bite." A New Jersey boy got terribly scared several years ago and screamed so hard that he lost his voice. He got scared again the other day at a paper spread over a rose bush, which he took for some strange animal and screamed so hard that he recovered his voice. As a screamer he seems to be a success.

FOOT BALL THIS AFTERNOON.

Greensboro to Play Wilmington at Hilton Park—An Exciting Contest Expected.

This afternoon on the gridiron at Hilton the lads of muscle and brawn from Greensboro will contest for glory with the Wilmington eleven. It will be a battle royal and if victory sees fit to crown the visiting lads and allow the red to wave on high, the Wilmington boys will acknowledge defeat gracefully, for they will have the consolation of knowing that disaster only overtook them after a manly and heroic struggle.

To-day's game will inaugurate the foot ball season in this city, and Manager Davis, of the Wilmington Club, has made all arrangements necessary. The admission will be 25 cents for all, and at this low rate the park should be crowded with people. The Wilmington team will line up as follows:

The line-up of the Greensboro team could not be obtained but the players are: Caldwell (captain), Devins, Wharton, Douglass, Gilmer, Boycott, Wright, Winslow, Daniels, Davis, Boon, Michaux (manager).

Mr. Weill May Be Defeated.

According to the Herald of the 10th, Mr. Sol. C. Weill, after all, may be defeated for State Assemblyman from the Nineteenth New York District. On a recount, ordered by Supreme Court Judge Lawrence, on application of Howard P. Okie, a candidate for Alderman in the Nineteenth Ward, it appeared that Okie was elected by about 125 plurality, and it was so declared. It is stated that the recount showed that Mr. P. M. Stewart, one of Mr. Weill's opponents for Assemblyman, was elected by about the same plurality. But in order to make his "calling and election sure," Mr. Stewart will to have to institute proceedings similar to those brought by Mr. Okie. The police returns elected Mr. Weill, but an examination of the tally sheets showed the contrary. This is the substance of an article in the Herald nearly a column in length.

An examination of several other New York papers of the 10th failed to show any reference to this matter, and this encourages Mr. Weill's friends here to hope he may not be defeated.

P. S.—The STAR learns that a telegram was received from Mr. Weill yesterday stating that a re-count had been ordered in his case.

Next Attraction at the Opera House.

"The Burglar," a four act comedy drama by Augustus Thomas, will be the attraction at the Opera House Monday evening. The impression created by the title of the play is somewhat misleading to the unknowing. The comedy is truly of that style of dramatic composition better known as the society drama, and is lightened with touches of pure comedy, which are always acceptable. The happiness of a home is marred by the fact that the husband and father turns out to be a burglar, escapes arrest by compromise and goes away. He is captured, and in escaping is supposed to be shot and is reported dead. The wife marries again. The burglar visits the home of his wife, not knowing it is such, and is discovered by his own little daughter, whereupon ensues one of the most original scenes ever seen on the stage.

Meeting of Board of Health.

The Board of Health met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Present, Mayor S. P. Wright, M. D., Dr. W. D. McMillan, Superintendent of Health, and Dr. G. G. Thomas.

Dr. McMillan stated that he issued an order to the proprietor of a dairy in the city not to supply to people milk obtained from two sick cows; that the proprietor obeyed the order, but was now offering the cows for sale to butchers.

Dr. Thomas read a section from the Special Sanitary Ordinance, which makes the sale of meat of diseased cattle to be used as food punishable by law, and Dr. McMillan was instructed by the Board to act accordingly.

After the transaction of other matters the meeting adjourned.

The matter of calling the inland quarantine off is still under consideration.

Death of Mrs. Susan A. Smith.

The STAR announces with sorrow the death of Mrs. Susan A. Smith, widow of the late Mr. Joseph Smith. The sad event occurred Wednesday night, at 10.40 o'clock, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. T. P. Sykes, 405 North Seventh street. The deceased had reached the advanced age of 79 years. She was an invalid for several years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. T. P. Sykes, and three grand children, Mr. R. H. Sykes, Mr. J. P. Shelley and Miss Lula Shelley.

The funeral will be conducted at 10.30 o'clock this morning from Mr. Sykes' residence. Interment at Oakdale cemetery.

New Steam Laundry.

Mr. H. B. Howle, of Chester, S. C., is in the city looking around for a building in which to establish a steam laundry. He has been running a laundry at Chester for some time, but believes that Wilmington is a better field and therefore has decided to put up here. He hopes to have the laundry under way by the middle of December. The machinery he claims to be as good as new and of the most improved kind. The laundry will furnish employment to from 6 to 10 hands.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Paid Fire Department Discussed—Resolution Adopted Approving the Action of the Board of Aldermen in the Matter.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, President Jas. H. Chadbourn, Jr., presiding. In the absence of the secretary, Col. John L. Cantwell, Mr. Jas. H. Cowan, of the STAR, was requested to act as secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Roanoke Chemical Co. and Messrs. Peterson & Rulfs were elected members of the Chamber.

Mr. Don McRae called the Chamber's attention to the fact that some dark substance was being placed by the city on Third street, between Castle and Church, and suggested that the city authorities be requested to place shell, or something of a like nature and color, on the street, so as not to mar its appearance. The matter was referred to the proper committee to be looked into.

The secretary read an interesting letter setting forth the growth of Wilmington during the last year, which Mr. W. E. Worth, second vice president of the Chamber, by request had written to the editor of The Tradesman, Chattanooga, Tenn.

President Chadbourn called the Chamber's attention to two pages of matter advertising the Chamber, in the Seaboard Air Line's Official Freight Shippers' Directory.

Mr. B. F. Keith arose and said: "Mr. President, I would like to get the sense of the Chamber about the proposed paid fire department. This may seem out of order, but it is a matter which interests all. Wilmington is too large a city to depend upon a volunteer department. The adoption of a paid department will mean a saving of 25 per cent. in insurance rates. The Board of Aldermen thought it would be wise to adopt a paid fire department in justice to the large tax-payers, and also to the small tax-payers, for when the fire bell sounds the firemen will be at the engine houses and will immediately respond, and unless the fire is in some out of the way place will suppress the flames before any great amount of damage is done; whereas, the firemen of a volunteer department are here, there and everywhere, and, of course, there is some delay before they reach the fire, which has in the meantime gained considerable headway."

President Chadbourn stated that he thought Mr. Keith's idea of getting the sense of the Chamber about the proposed paid fire department was a good one.

Mr. S. H. Fishblate said: "I agree with Mr. Keith in his idea that a matter of this importance should be referred to this body, as the Chamber represents the tax-payers of Wilmington. The old volunteer department, as it existed up to a few months ago, was A1, and as fine as any volunteer or paid department in the United States, but it seems that the present Board of Aldermen did not appreciate that fact. The Board started out with a cry of economy and the first thing they did was to cut down the appropriation for that department. What is the consequence? We have had no department, and we were very lucky in having so few fires. The Board now proposes to establish a paid department at an expense of $15,000 per year, which is a perfect farce; any sensible man knows you can't run a paid department at those figures. You will find that they start out with an expense of $15,000 per year, which, however, will mean $25,000 or more per year. The insurance men talk about reducing rates of insurance; did you ever know them to do such a thing before, when they even promised to do so. They are always going to decrease, but always increase. Wilmington can't afford a paid fire department, and I would suggest to the Board of Aldermen that they ask the fire companies who have gone out of service to return to their respective houses and give them the same appropriation allowed them as of yore. I can say for the Harriss Board, if God blesses this city, that you will have a volunteer fire department far superior to the proposed paid department. We want good men for firemen, and look at the selection the Board has made—disreputable men who are not worthy to be employed either by the city or individuals."

Mr. Keith said: "The volunteer department has done good service. The selection of the firemen for the paid department was done by the Chief of the Fire Department, and there was no politics mixed up in the matter and no axe to grind. If blessings are what we are after, we don't want the kind that Mr. Fishblate asks for. All we ask for is a show. We can't obtain good, responsible men for firemen for $30 per month. Look at the firemen who were true and loyal and who stood up when the city was threatened to be laid in ashes and left open to the fire-bug. Look at the Hemenway School building fire; was there ever a more magnificently managed fire? And I say in behalf of our present chief of the department that he managed it in a more superior manner than some of the chiefs we have had could have done."

Mr. Don McRae said: "As a taxpayer and a citizen of Wilmington I feel constrained to say something. The action about a paid fire department that the city proposed to take, as I understand it, is a good one, and one which seems to me very desirable. For a number of years I myself felt very much like advocating a paid fire department in an active way. The volunteer department has done very efficient work, but at the same time, viewing the matter perfectly unbiased, a volunteer body, under no special control, is not likely to do work of any kind as well as a paid body under some control by some authority. I think the idea of a paid department a most excellent one."

Mr. McRae offered a resolution approving the movement of the Board of Aldermen as to a paid department, and moved its adoption.

Mr. D. L. Gore seconded Mr. McRae's motion.

Mr. A. J. Marshall said he thought the Chamber was treading on dangerous grounds, and that they ought to keep their hands off.

Mr. W. N. Harriss moved that the matter be deferred.

Mr. C. C. Covington asked that some of the insurance agents be heard upon the matter and explain what would be saved, etc., by the adoption of a paid department.

Col. Walker Taylor explained what had been done by the Underwriters' Association and what reduction (as fully detailed in the STAR), will be made if a paid fire department system, according to contract, was established.

Mr. Don McRae withdrew his resolution offered, and upon the suggestion of Mr. M. W. Jacobi amended the resolution and offered it as follows, viz:

Resolved, That this Chamber does hereby most heartily approve of the movement now on foot by our city government in regard to a paid fire department; provided, that the said department shall be entirely in accordance with the requirements of the Underwriters' Association, and at a cost for equipment and maintenance of not more than $17,000 per year; and believing that if such a department is properly controlled in will result in great saving to our property owners, both in the way of salvage and in reduction in insurance rates.

Mr. D. L Gore seconded the adoption of the resolution introduced.

Mr. W. N. Harriss moved that the matter be referred to a committee of three, Col. Walker Taylor and Messrs. D. L. Gore and Don MacRae, to consider the matter and report at a subsequent meeting.

Mr. A. J. Marshall seconded this motion.

Upon the substitute Mr. S. H. Fishblate called for a yea and nay vote.

The substitute was put and lost, Messrs. S. H. Fishblate, T. W. Clawson, J. T. Riley, W. N. Harriss and A. J. Marshall voting for, and Col. Walker Taylor and Messrs. A. J. Howell, Jr., M. W. Jacobi, T. F. Bagley, C. C. Covington, J. B. Mercer, A. B. Skelding, B. F. Keith, Andrew Smith, D. L. Gore and Jas. H. Cowan voting against it.

The resolution as originally offered by Mr. McRae was then placed before the meeting and carried, Messrs. S. H. Fishblate, W. N. Harriss and A. J. Marshall voting against it and Mr. T. W. Clawson not voting.

Acting upon the suggestion of President Chadbourn, the secretary was instructed to address a letter to the Roanoke Chemical Company, welcoming the company and expressing the gratitude of the Chamber that they had joined their body.

The meeting then at 5.20 o'clock adjourned.

THE PRICE OF COTTON.

Slight Improvement in the Market But the Cotton Men Think It Will Not Be Permanent.

Cotton was very firm yesterday at 5¼ cents for middling; in fact, holders wouldn't let it go at those figures. There are those who think that the present year forms a parallel in prices to 1894. The cotton reached the bottom apparently in the second week of November, the price ruling at 5 cents from the 9th to the 23d, when it took a slight rise, giving ground for the expectation that it would continue to "look up." On the contrary, it finally got back to the five cent line and stayed there all Spring until in March it began to rise. So if this season is to be like that of '94-'95, the cotton growers need not base any hopes on the recent slight improvement in the market.

Trouble Over a Coat.

Ed. Quick, a colored drayman, some time ago lost an overcoat. Yesterday he saw another colored man arrayed in the garment and on investigation found that it had been bought of a bar tender on Water street, who had exchanged a dollar in cash and liquor for it. The man who was found wearing the coat took it to the party from whom he bought it and got his money back, but the bar tender refused to let the coat change hands any more and said that it would take a claim of delivery warrant to make him give up the property. The owner was on the point of applying for the warrant at last accounts.

Runaway Yesterday Afternoon.

There was an exciting runaway on Sixth street yesterday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock. A mule drawing a load of furniture took fright and ran from Mulberry to Market, turning down that street and keeping up his speed as far as Third, when bystanders stopped him. Portions of the load of furniture were left all along the mule's course.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW.

Second Night of the Entertainment in Aid of the Oxford Orphan Asylum.

The Chrysanthemum show at the Y. M. C. A. building was again crowded with people, and closed last night with a delightful entertainment by the young folks.

There were new exhibits of chrysanthemums by Mrs. B F. McLean, Maxton; Mrs. Dr. Curtis, Southport, and Mr. Sol. Bear, of this city. Mrs. J. W. Craig, florist, donated a lot of choice cut flowers to be sold, the proceeds to go to the orphans.

One of the features of the occasion was a delightful programme of music and recitations. Miss Nellie Calder sang very delightfully, "The Maid of the Mill." Miss Hattie Taylor recited and very gracefully "Selections," and for an encore she responded in her same happy manner with "Sons of Degrees."

Miss Mary Lilly Kenan next delighted the audience, singing "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry," and for an encore she sang "Proposal."

Mr. E P. Boatwright was in his old accustomed place—at the piano.

As yet the management have not been able to estimate the proceeds of the entertainment.

Carolina Veneer Works.

In reference to the destruction by fire of the Carolina Veneer Works referred to in the STAR yesterday, the Clinton Democrat gives the following:

"The loss to the owners, Messrs. A. F. Johnson & Son, is about $35 000 with no insurance. Nothing was saved. The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks in the engine room. This factory made berry crates, baskets and butter dishes. The plant cost some $40 000 Mr. Johnson and his son have the sympathy of the community in their financial loss. Not only they, but the community loses by the burning of this enterprise."

JAPAN ON THE SEA.

One of the coming sea powers, and one of the rapidly coming, too, is Japan, that marvellous new-born nation which has done so much on land and sea within the past few decades to challenge the admiration of the world. In commenting upon an address delivered by Admiral Belknap at the recent session of the Naval War College, in which his theme was the success of Japan, the New York Sun says :

"But the exact importance of Japan as an element in the naval control of the Pacific, and the exact strength of her fleet, present and prospective, are not easy to determine. On the latter point, however, much information may be had from a list of ships contained in the Japan Weekly Mail, excluding about two dozen fallen into disuse.

'Japan's acquisition of battleships is an affair of the last few years only, so that she really has very few of them, although these few are mostly first class. Indeed, the Shikishima, of 15,087 tons displacement, is expected to be the largest battleship in the world, surpassing England's Majestic class by a few tons. Next to her are the fine pair Fuji and Yashima, of 12,649 and 12,517 tons, just completed, whose combination of speed, armor and armament has properly excited great praise. The Chin Yen, 7,785 tons, captured from China, and dating back to 1881, is the fourth battleship, but very far inferior to the three modern ones. The Fuso is an armored corvette of 3,777 tons, twenty years old. The three coast defenders, Itsukushima, Matsushima and Hashidate, 4,278 tons each, must be added to Japan's armored resources, while the Hiyei and Kongo, 2,284 tons each, are of wood, with iron sheathing.

"In her unarmored cruisers Japan is strong. With these she overthrew the fleet of China. The most famous of them is of comparatively recent completion, the fast Yoshino, 4,216 tons, while the Takasago is of 4,227 tons. Now building are the steel cruisers Kasagi and Chitose, of 4,978 and 4,836 tons, which will be fine vessels of their class, and two other new ones are the Akashi, 2,830 and Miyako, 1,800, the latter a dispatch boat. The Naniwa 3,709 tons, the model of our Charleston, has for us always been the best known of Japanese warships, her recent presence at Honolulu keeping up her celebrity. Of the same displacement is the Takachiho. The Akitsusu, 3,150 tons, is a recently built cruiser, and so is the Suma, 2,700 We find in the Weekly Mail's list four other vessels of between 2,000 and 3,000 tons, ten exceeding 1,000, four gunboats of the Mayo class, 628 tons; five of the Chinto class, 440, these last being captured from the Chinese; and half a dozen other vessels under 1,000 tons, besides twenty-nine torpedo boats. These last, it appears, are to be increased by nine from Germany.

"Our conclusion is that, while Japan has recently made splendid additions to her fleet, she still ranks decidedly below us a naval power. Save for the few battleships she has acquired lately, she could not rank anywhere near us. We still excel her both in battleships and cruisers, and are likely soon to equal or surpass her in torpedo boats. Yet in the Pacific she has an advantage in that the greater part of our navy is on the Atlantic. Happily our relations with her cannot be called strained. She knows we are going to annex Hawaii, and that we want nothing else in the Pacific, so that if some day she should desire to buy the Pailippines or the Carolines, it would be no affair of ours."

This is a pretty formidable showing for a nation whose navy is yet in its infancy, and an achievement, too, which has been accomplished without any blaring of trumpets or grand parade, and so quietly and systematically that it has attracted much less attention than much less important achievements have in other countries. But that is the Japanese way of doing. They decide and do without racket, a characteristic exemplified in the movements of their armies, where the only noise made is by the bang of musketry or rifles or the roar of artillery after the battle opens, the marches being in silence, no bands, no singing or shouting, not even in battle, where the commands are given by signs and signals, not words. It is said that this silent march, this quiet coming upon the contested field had quite as awe-inspiring effect upon the Chinese in the recent war as the onset of the enemy had. It is, perhaps, because Japan makes so little noise that the world knows so little about what she is doing, as by the silent marches of her armies in China the Chinese knew so little about their movements and what they were doing or contemplated doing.

As the navy of Japan is an infant now compared with what it will some day be, so is the Japan of to-day an infant compared with the Japan of the future. With an ambition to take her place among and figure and compete with the first class powers, she must become a first class power, and being, like Great Britain, an island, she must like Great Britain be walled in by ships, and a great navy becomes necessary to her success and greatness. The wars that she may wage in the future, whether defensive or offensive, will in all probability be naval wars, and if she nurses the spirit of territorial aggrandizement, the possession of colonies or trading posts, she already, with the example of Great Britain, knows the value of ships that carry guns and fighting men. It is, then, under the circumstances, the most natural thing in the world that Japanese statesmen should look to the future and to the sea, on which she is to fight battles and become greater or less.

Admiral Belknap tells us in the address referred to that immediately after the treaty with Commodore Perry in 1854 to open the Japanese ports to American trade Japan showed a desire for a navy and began to buy war ships, establish dockyards and training schools and soon had a naval academy at Tokio. When he visited that country in 1889 he found a dockyard at Yokosuka superior to any which we had at that time. The custom has been for years to have naval and army evolutions on Owari Bay, conducted according to modern methods and careful note made of any detected defects with a view to promptly remedying them. Since her ports were opened and this desire shown for a navy she has been adding to it steadily and studying the art of naval warfare. The ease with which she entered Chinese ports and made short work of the Chinese navy has stimulated her pride and increased her confidence in her prowess on the water.

This is the power that we will have to confront some day on the broad Pacific, a friendly power now because she is not yet in a condition and cannot afford to be otherwise than friendly. But there is no clash of interest yet and is not likely to be soon, even over Hawaii, as the Sun intimates; but rivals in commerce, as Japan and this country will eventually be, who knows when the clash may come, when friendly salutations will give way to the booming of sea guns? There is very little in common between the nations when "self the wavering balance shakes," and there is even less between the Asiatic and the Caucasian races. With the progress of the world they may be drawing closer together, to think a little more alike, but they will never get close enough together to think alike or to think much more of each other than they do now. The race instinct or prejudice will be always there, and the race rivalry, too.

Japan is nearer by ship to our Pacific coast than we are to any part of it from our Atlantic ports. To defend our Pacific ports in case of trouble with Japan we must have a fleet in the Pacific equal or superior to hers, and we must also have a fleet in the Atlantic strong enough for war purposes, which practically amounts to two fleets. If Japan were in our situation, with her business like way of solving questions, she would cut an opening between the two oceans so that her ships could go quickly from one to the other and thus be in a position to concentrate in a short time her full naval strength on either ocean as contingencies might require. That's what Japan would do and that is what this country should do and will do if she be not blind to the fact that she may yet have to cope with power in the Pacific that will test her metal.

MINOR MENTION.

Statistician Mulhall, of England, who has been writing some very interesting papers on American industrial matters for the North American Review, devotes part of his last paper, entitled "American Trade for Thirty Years," to showing the productive power of the United States. Summed up it shows that the increase in grain products in the past twenty years has been 77 per cent.; in meat 72 per cent. and in cotton 125 per cent. Our farmers, he says, raise food stuffs enough for 100,000,000 of people every year, or for 30,000,000 more than our own population. We raise over half the cotton worked into fabrics, and could raise without exhausting our cotton growing area three times as much. "The world," he says, "is only beginning to have evidence of the enormous productive power of the United States." The large increase in our agricultural products may be easily accounted for by the opening up of so much territory, the building of new railroads, affording transportation to the products, and the general use of labor-saving machinery which enables one man to cultivate four or five times as much land as could be done where this kind of machinery is not used. And yet, with all this industry and energy and hard work by our farmers within the past twenty years, these twenty years have been years of depression, with little exception, for them. With a majority of them it has been a scuffle to live and make ends meet. We know it will be said that "overproduction" is the cause of this, but it is not overproduction in the true sense, for they have never produced more than the world needs. They have produced more than there was a profitable market for, but this was because financial policies have been inaugurated in this and in other countries which lessened the capacity of the world to buy, and correspondingly decreased the demand for consumption. The American farmer suffers not from his own industry, but from the blundering financial policies of statesmen.

* *

Hon. Mark Hanna is reported as saying that the silver issue didn't figure in the Ohio election, and the goldites who would like to believe it didn't seem to find some comfort in quoting Mr. Hanna. Perhaps Mr. Hanna considers that he was the issue in that election, and that an admission that silver figured in it would overshadow him, and Mark doesn't like to be overshadowed by anything. But whatever his opinion may be as to Ohio, it isn't acquiesced in by leading papers of the country, both of the Republican and independent gold persuasion. With few exceptions they have conceded that the elections taken as a whole were a victory for free silver, an "impetus to Bryanism," as the New York Post styles it. The Springfield (Ill.) Republican—goldite independent Republican—isn't disposed to give much comfort to those who don't want to see silver in it. After denying that the elections in New York and Maryland were indications of a silver set back in either of these States, it says :

"It must be remembered by those who would figure coldly in these matters that Nebraska, an old Republican State, gave silver about as large a majority this year as last, while in Iowa the Democrats, after a campaign on the silver issue, polled within 30,000 as many votes as in the Presidential year, or a total which was the largest in their history in State elections, with one exception."

It calls attention to the fact that this strong showing was made by the silver Democrats in these States despite the alleged prosperity they were enjoying as the result of higher priced wheat, a factor on which the Republicans counted with much confidence. In both Nebraska and Iowa the Democrats stood squarely on the Chicago platform and fought on that. If they had been beaten it would have been claimed by the Republicans as a defeat for free silver, and they would have been right in so claiming.

THE DEATH OF SEDGWICK.

A little before 8 o'clock on the morning of May 9 General Grant mounted his horse and directed me and two other staff officers to accompany him to make an examination of the lines in our immediate front. This day he rode a black pony called Jeff Davis, given that name because it had been captured in Mississippi on the plantation of Joe Davis, a brother of the Confederate president. It was turned into the quartermaster's department, from which it was purchased by the general on his Vicksburg campaign. He was not well at that time, being afflicted with boils, and he took a fancy to the pony because it had a remarkably easy pace, which enabled the general to make his long daily rides with much more comfort than when he used the horses he usually rode. Little Jeff soon became a conspicuous figure in the Virginia campaign.

We proceeded to Sedgwick's command, and the general had a conference with him in regard to the part his corps was to take in the contemplated attack. Both officers remained mounted during the interview. The gallant commander of the famous Sixth corps seemed particularly cheerful and hopeful that morning and looked the picture of buoyant life and vigorous health. When his chief uttered some words of compliment upon his recent services and spoke of the hardships he had encountered, Sedgwick spoke lightly of the difficulties experienced and expressed every confidence in the ability of his troops to respond heroically to every demand made upon them. When the general in chief left him, Sedgwick started with his staff to move farther to the front.

Our party had ridden but a short distance to the left when General Grant sent me back to Sedgwick to discuss with him further a matter which it was thought had not been sufficiently emphasized in their conversation. While I was following the road I had seen him take I heard musketry firing ahead and soon saw the body of an officer being borne from the field. Such a sight was so common that ordinarily it would have attracted no attention, but my apprehensions were aroused by seeing several of General Sedgwick's staff beside the body. As they came nearer I gave an inquiring look. Colonel Beaumont of the staff cast his eyes in the direction of the body, then looked at me with an expression of profound sorrow and slowly shook his head. His actions told the whole sad story. His heroic chief was dead.

I was informed that as he was approaching an exposed point of the line to examine the enemy's position more closely General McMahon of his staff reminded him that one or two officers had just been struck at that spot by sharpshooters and begged him not to advance farther. At this suggestion the general only smiled and soon after had entirely forgotten the warning. Indifferent to every form of danger, such an appeal made but little impression upon him. His movements led him to the position against which he had been cautioned, and he had scarcely dismounted and reached the spot on foot when a bullet entered his left cheek just below the eye, and he fell dead. As his lifeless form was carried by a smile still remained upon his lips. Sedgwick was essentially a soldier. He had never married. The camp was his home, and the members of his staff were his family. He was always spoken of familiarly as Uncle John, and the news of his death fell upon his comrades with a sense of grief akin to the sorrow of a personal bereavement.

I rode off at once to bear the sad intelligence to the general in chief. For a few moments he could scarcely realize it and twice asked, "Is he really dead?" The shock was severe, and he could ill conceal the depth of his grief. He said, "His loss to this army is greater than the loss of a whole division of troops." General Wright was at once placed in command of the Sixth corps.—General Horace Porter in Century.

How to Lift the Skirt.

The mode of lifting the skirt has changed considerably. Last year, when skirts were very wide, a brave young maid grabbed a handful on each side and plunged across the street, as though preparing for a desperate leap.

This year the skirts are narrower. It's easier to handle them. The maid now leans back and takes her skirt gracefully in one hand. The point at which she seizes it is nearly half way down the center of the back, nor is the skirt drawn to one side, but is pushed up, disclosing beneath a dainty underskirt.

Another matter which it discloses—and of which the maid seems oft oblivious—is the condition of the bottom of the skirt. Nothing ruins the appearance of a skirt more than when it is worn at the bottom. Yet how many are sadly neglected.

When a skirt needs rebinding, take the velveteen, or whatever finish it has, off entirely, even if it is but worn in spots. The brush the skirt carefully and hang it in the air for several hours; sponge and press the bottom of the skirt, and it is ready for rebinding. If the facing is worn, it is best to renew that, with alpaca or percaline, about 12 inches in width.

For binding, velveteen is most serviceable, although there is a fad at present for mohair cord. If cord is used, it is fastened to the edge after the skirt is entirely finished. If velveteen, the skirt is faced, not bound with it, unless there is need for an additional inch of skirt length.

A FISHING RECTOR.

He Delayed Sunday Services That He Might Catch a Fish.

The Rev. John Snakering was rector of a small parish on the left bank of the river Trent. Indeed he was rector of the whole village as well as being the landed proprietor. But for the fact of his being a humane and generous landlord, with a strong spice of sport, in which he joined the villagers at times, whether with rod or gun or occasionally sharing in the tallyho, he was as much the ruler of bodies and souls of his neighbors as was formerly the veritable plantation and slave owner in the southern states of South America. All the farms in the neighborhood were his freehold property, and all the farmers, their sisters, cousins and aunts owed and paid him allegiance. Hence his congregation at the church comprised his tenants and their families and occasionally included a devout pedestrian, who would step aside from the flowery mead to share in the Sunday services.

The rector was a broad minded man who had not discovered the sinfulness of angling on the day usually devoted to rest. One Sunday morning, with rod in hand and jack boots incasing his sturdy nether limbs, he had reeled a handsome grayling, and as an experienced angler he knew that this tribe of fish run in pairs as mates. The parish clerk put in an appearance and thus addressed his reverend master: "Sir, it's a quarter past 11, and the congregation is getting uneasy. I'm afraid they'll all go home if you don't come at once." "Let them go and be—happy if they like. I'll not stir a peg till I've caught that other grayling," was the parson's reply. Fortunately the consummation so devoutly to be wished quickly followed, and the rector clinked with his fishing boots up the aisle of the adjacent church. The service was none the less appreciated by the congregation, for, in consideration of the parson's many noble qualities, they all loved Jack.—Fun Gazette.

India's pearl fisheries have been famous from the remotest time. In the Persian gulf the industry has existed from the days of the Macedonians.

COTTON MARKETS

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK Nov 11.—The phases of the cotton market to day, while conflicting, were in the main decidedly more favorable. Investment buying was a pronounced feature and covering became quite active. Advices from the South, heretofore irregular and generally weak, had a much better average. The English cotton market showed unexpected and pronounced firmness. Private cables stated that there was a very substantial improvement in the inquiry for actual cotton to go immediately into consumption. This stimulated speculative demand at this point in connection with private cables saying that Manchester conditions were noticeably better. In the afternoon the market was decidedly strong on predictions of frost, hardening Southern spot markets and fears of a sharp upturn at Liverpool to morrow. Opening at an advance of 4@5 points there was a further improvement of 2@3 points, after which there was a partial reaction under realizing and indications of very sharp movement at the

IS IT A MATTER OF TIME?

What Was Considered Modest and Proper a Hundred Years Ago.

Modesty, as has often been said, may almost be considered a matter of time and place. In the time of George III of England, though the drapery was of the scantiest, it was not considered delicate or refined to uncover the forehead. Some young ladies who had been abroad were considered bold looking because they wore their hair Madonna fashion. Ladies not in la premiere jeunesse very generally wore wigs. The princesses had their heads shaved and wore wigs ready dressed and decorated for the evening to save time for the toilet. Widows almost always shaved their heads. Lady Murray says her mother's beautiful hair was cut off for her deep mourning, and she never wore anything but a wig in after years.

At Windsor castle in those days luncheon was not, as it is now, a general meal. Each lady had a chicken, a plate of fruit and a bottle of king's cup (the peel of a lemon put to soak for some hours in cold water and then sweetened with sugar) brought to her room every day. Those were the days for servants' perquisites. On all the highest saints' days a tinsel cross of divers colors was placed on the tables of the ladies or sent to their residences, and a guinea was understood to be due in return. A bottle of wine every two days and unnecessary wax candles were the perquisites of the ladies' maids.

Candles were extinguished as soon as lit, to be carried off by servants. Pages were seen marching out before the royal family with a bottle of wine sticking out of each pocket, and the state page called regularly upon each person who attended the drawing rooms, with his book, to receive the accustomed gratuity. The ladies in waiting then wore the Windsor uniform, which is at present confined to the gentlemen attendants. It was a blue cloth habit, not long, as worn for riding, but the length of a gown, with buttons having a star surrounded with the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense" and a scarlet collar.—New York Herald.

COUNTING APPLE SEEDS.

Beside the hearth one winter night,
Made rosy by the great log's light,
That, flaming up the chimney dark,
Hit every cranny, every nook,
Upon the rug a little maid
Sat curled in pose demure and staid.

In pensive mood, with dreamy eyes,
She sits, while up the chimney flies
A thought with every fiery spark,
Glinting and flashing through the dark,
Till with a sigh profound and deep
She moves as one moves in her sleep.

A rosy apple in her hand
A weight of thought seems to demand.
She taps it with a finger light,
Then carefully she takes a bite,
Another bite, now one, now two.
The core is thus exposed to view.

Another sigh! What can it be,
My little maid, that aileth thee?
Ah! What is this? Some incantation,
Muttered with such reiteration?
Hark! As each seed her bright eyes see,
These are the words that come to me:

"One I love, two I love,
Three I love, I say!
Four I love with all my heart,
Five I cast away."

Here a tear rolls brightly down.
What the secret she has won?
Who can say? But just behind
Sounds a voice so soft and kind:
"Look again! Thou must indeed
Find for me another seed!"

Rosier her bright cheeks grow
In the firelight's ruddy glow.
Sure enough, a culprit seed
Finds she in the core indeed.
"From thy lips I fain would hear
What the sixth one means, my dear."

"Six he loves," she murmured low.
And the firelight's flickering glow
Two happy faces now disclose,
With cheeks a-glowing like the rose.
But here we'll let the curtain fall.
For the end is best of all.

Ambidextrous men and women, or those who can use either right or left hand with equal facility, are not nearly so frequently met with as might at first be supposed—in fact, they are quite rare. This double faculty is, however, much more frequently met with among butchers and sailors than in any other walks of life. Left handed butchers are numerous, as a walk through any of our large market houses will quickly demonstrate, but it is a very interesting study to watch one of them who will cut, chop, saw and handle his meat without once changing it from one side to the other on the block or changing his own position.

In view of the many advantages derived from the ability to use both hands equally well many people have often expressed surprise at the action of educational authorities in insisting on the use of only the right hand instead of trying to develop an equal skill in the other. They all stick to the right handed idea, however, and an old resident of Frankford, noted for his ambidextrousness, is still mourning the loss of a prize at school through the use of his left hand in writing, although he was equally skillful as a penman with his right.

The benefits derived from the use of both hands were excellently illustrated in the experience of two carpenters who lived in Frankford some years ago. Their names were Cross and Walton, and the former was right handed, the latter left handed. As one was also very tall and the other very short, they made a curious couple, but they always worked together laying floors and putting up joiners' work in buildings.

They could take jobs of this character cheaper than any other, because they could work from either end toward each other so handily. Cross would square a floor board at one end and Walton would "scribe" and cut it off to fit at the other end and then nail down, working together from opposite ends.

Diamonds In an Extinct Volcano.

An interesting discovery from a geological point of view was recently made by an explorer in the mountains of Witzies Hoek, Natal. On the summit of an extinct volcano, on the edge of a lake that occupies the crater, soundings revealed a layer of sand inclosing small diamonds. It would be interesting to know whether these diamonds were there accidentally—that is, as the result of washing operations carried on by the natives—or whether this discovery corresponds to an actual mine of diamonds, for the hills of Witzies Hoek are not situated in regions known to be diamond bearing. On the last hypothesis the presence of precious stones in the crater of a volcano would doubtless throw some light on the formation of the gems in nature.—Genie Civil.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A Fortune For Dress—The Woman Who "Sees to Things"—How to Lift the Skirt. Where No Corsets Are Allowed—Girls and Home—American Women Abroad.

Out of a possible three or four women decorators in Chicago the youngest and cleverest is Miss Louise R. Twyman of Hyde Park. Although she is a charming young woman, scarcely 23 years of age, still she is one of the pioneers among women in interior decoration—in the thoroughgoing ladder and scaffold work on walls and ceiling.

It takes a certain kind of energy, perseverance and pluck to mount a lofty scaffolding and work for a number of hours, with uplifted arm and head bent backward, decorating a flat and uninviting expanse of ceiling. It takes a kind of physical endurance and grit that not many women ever demonstrate. To paint a tiny piece of canvas held comfortably before one is a summer dream in comparison. Women all over the world have gained distinction where the means were easy, talent considered, but few have gained it in this most difficult phase of art—interior decoration. It took a Chicago girl to venture into this untried realm and come forth triumphant with colors flying. It took a young woman like Miss Twyman to make a success of the undertaking.

Yet even at 22 she is not a novice. Her first work was begun six years ago, when she was still a student in the Hyde Park high school. Since then her work has matured wonderfully and shows none of the shallowness of the ordinary fresco painters. But at 16 she gave unusual promise. From her childhood, in fact, she evinced a strong tendency toward decorative work. At 7 years of age, it is said, it was her custom to lie prostrate on the floor and plan little designs for her own gowns. She not only dictated the quaint fashion of her frocks, but even suggested rare and striking combinations of color that proved early the art instinct.

The tendencies of her childhood, fostered and directed by her father, Joseph Twyman, a man of enviable reputation as a decorator, have ripened into the serious profession of her womanhood. It is to that father that she owes her first inspiration. And it is to his guidance and masterly teaching that she owes a great part of her success. Father and daughter work together and find in one another a sympathy and dependence that is an unusual and beautiful relationship. Miss Twyman is a thoroughly progressive and modern young woman. Consequently she disdains the idea of wearing skirts while performing her duties on a stepladder. While at work she wears a pair of blue denim bloomers that are now the pride of her heart. One glimpse of them would reveal the whole secret of their worth. They are completely covered with a confusion of paint daubs in many colors. Their association and contact with the brush have made them priceless to Miss Twyman. They have acquired such wonderful dashes of coloring that they rival Joseph's coat in variety, and are far more interesting studies than any pair of artistic sleeves in town that are used in lieu of paint rags. Such is the shortest cut in courting the muse.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Fortune For Dress.

In speaking of the enormous sums spent annually by some of the society women of New York, such as Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, Mrs. Lorillard, Mrs. Belmont and others of the same set, the statement has been made that several of them spend from $20,000 to $25,000 for their winter wardrobes alone. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont is said to have spent $25,000 for her wardrobe the present season. How this can be done will be seen from the following list:

Ten gowns for ball and opera, $3,000; 10 bonnets, $950; 1 sealskin cape, $400; 2 fur muffs, $150; 1 ear muff, $129; 1 opera cloak, $300; 1 opera cloak, $350; 6 pairs walking shoes, $90; 4 pairs dancing shoes, $48; 4 pairs kid slippers, $60; 3 dozen long gloves, $360; 4 dozen gloves for driving and walking, $144; 10 tea gowns, $2,200; 6 dressing gowns, $500; 3 riding habits, $400; 14 corsets, $420; 12 pairs silk stockings, $60; 4 dozen pair lisle stockings, $144; 2 pairs bedroom slippers, $20; 4 suits silk underwear, $200; 10 suits woolen underwear, $200; lingerie, $1,500; 4 dozen handkerchiefs, $45; 2 dozen handkerchiefs, $48; 2 dozen handkerchiefs, $36; 3 dozen handkerchiefs, $36; toilet articles, $1,000; tea gowns for walking and driving, $1,000; 3 bath robes, $160; 3 fans, $75; 3 pairs riding boots, $75; 2 bicycle suits, $300; 2 traveling outfits, $200; 2 winter wraps, $200; 2 winter wraps, $150; 3 skating outfits, $275; trimmings, ribbons, etc., $800; 4 umbrellas, $48; 1 sable trimmed wrap, $1,000; 3 dinner gowns, $1,200; 2 evening cloaks, $800; 1 dozen veils, $150; jewelry, $5,000; 1 fur wrap, $800; 2 fur boas, $200; 2 morning gowns, $300; 2 sleighing outfits, $400; 3 theater costumes, $300; 1 fancy dress ball costume, $800; 6 pairs overshoes, $6; total, $25,749.

This does not include any of her other personal expenses, such as the cost of flowers, the pay of ladies' maids, money given in charity, the cost of opera and theater boxes and the charge for entertainment and household maintenance. On clothes alone Mrs. Belmont spends in a single winter season what would be a fortune to the ordinary man.—Boston Post.

The Sacredness of Prayer Rugs.

Verses from the Koran and other passages considered sacred are generally stamped on the fabrics used as prayer rugs by the Mohammedans, and it is criminal in oriental law to export such pieces. This is doubtless because use by the occidentals means the treading of the sacred words under infidel feet, and when you think it over it is not to be wondered at. A few years ago an American succeeded in getting two such pieces as near home as Paris, but the inducements offered to him to return them to the oriental dealer were potent enough to effect their purpose.

Lismore castle, the Irish seat of the Duke of Devonshire, is beautifully situated on the Blackwater. The town is of great antiquity and was once famous for its university and its monasteries.

The Late Princess Bismarck.

"The countess stood there, hesitating a moment," writes George W. Smalley while describing his first visit to Prince Bismarck, a few years ago, in The Ladies' Home Journal. "I thought then, as I have thought since, of the part she had played in her husband's life. Her present intervention had evidently surprised the count; it was very much in the manner, thus far, of Mrs. Gladstone, whose superintendence over her husband has been, especially during the last 20 years, of a very close and anxious kind. Countess Bismarck never, I think, aspired to much direct influence in public affairs. Her face was not that of a masterful woman, nor yet pre-eminently of one born to bear sway in courts or drawing rooms, but above all things sympathetic, kindly, amiable and attractive. Her manner was of great sweetness. She moved and spoke gently. In all her bearing, in the tone of her voice, in her attitude as she remained there, still appealing to her husband, though silent, there were both affection and refinement."

Beauty on the Stage.

"I am inclined to think," says a man who has had a great deal to do with the stage, "that three-quarters of a woman's chance of getting a start as an actress depends upon her personal beauty. It is not that alone, however. There are some women who will not attract in spite of their beauty. I have seen that frequently in the course of my life. A woman who has a large degree of beauty without the power of attracting makes a decided impression at first, but it is soon gone. I am not sure but it is a certain roundness of mental and physical development that makes a woman attractive. The feeling that she possesses it gives her an equilibrium which is pleasing in itself. That a good appearance is a benefit on the stage can be seen in many cases where there are both men and women holding prominent positions who cannot act and who depend only on their looks."—New York Times.

BERING SEA CONFERENCE.

Full Representation of British, Canadian and American Officials—Marked Differences of Opinion Expressed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, November 11.—To-day's Bering Sea conference began at 11 o'clock with a full representation of the British, Canadian and American officials. For the first time the statistics of the catch of seals for the present year was available. These were compiled by American officials and brought out prominently two features which were regarded as most important in supporting the American contention, namely, that the catch had fallen off about one-half during the present season, showing conclusively, in the opinion of the American experts, that the seal herd was being rapidly wiped out; and second, that the catch of seals from the American islands in Bering sea was about fifteen to one as between the Canadian sealers under the British flag and American sealers. The same proportion was shown to exist throughout the waters of the North Pacific.

The falling off of about one-half in the total catch both in the Bering sea and the North Pacific, is said to be most significant in view of the circumstances. The present season is a better one, the experts say, for the taking of seals than last season. The same regulations apply this season as last. It is said that the conclusion to be drawn from this year's figures is that the seal herd has been greatly reduced by indiscriminate slaughter at the alarming rate of about one-half in the last year.

At to-day's conference the report of Professor Lucas upon the habits of the seal was read, as were also the reports of Messrs. Jordan, Thompson and McCoun. The reports of Professors Jordon and Thompson had not been exchanged heretofore. The papers led to considerable discussion, which was, generall speaking, of an amicable character, although some marked differences of opinion were expressed.

WILL NOT HANG TO-DAY.

Another Respite for Durrant, the Murderer of Blanche Lamont.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 11.—Wm. Henry Theodore Durrant will not be hanged at San Quentin to-morrow after all, the Supreme Court of this State having granted him another respite at the eleventh hour.

Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon, when news flashed over the wires from Sacramento that the Court now in session there had granted a writ of probable cause, and instructed Warden Hale not to carry out the execution of Durrant until further orders, there was apparently no further hope for the murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, as his attorneys, Messrs. Dickinson and Boardman, had made a futile effort to secure another writ of habeas corpus in the United States Court and had not been granted permission to appeal from that decision to the Supreme Court of the United States. Meanwhile, however, Mr. Dapprey hastened to Sacramento and applied to the State Supreme Court for a writ of probable cause, for the purpose of staying the proceeding against his client upon the ground that no official knowledge of the action of the Supreme Court of the United States in the matter of Durrant's appealing from the decision of the Federal Court had yet been received; that the Superior Court had acted too hastily in sentencing Durrant to be hanged to-morrow, as the law required that he be given at least sixty days grace; and thirdly, that the pendency of an appeal in the Supreme Court affecting the condemned was of itself sufficient cause for a stay of execution. The matter was partially argued in chambers and later argued before the full court and taken under advisement. Shortly afterward the court announced its decision, granting the writ applied for, in which all the justices concurred.

OPPOSED TO AUTONOMY.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, November 11.—At a meeting of the central committee of the Union Constitutional party, held under the chairmanship of the Marquis of Pinar del Rio, it was resolved to send a cable message to the Queen Regent, protesting against the establishment of autonomy and requesting her not to sign or sanction any decree establishing an autonomous regime in Cuba. It was also decided to organize the party, to collect funds and to initiate a campaign against autonomy.

A dispatch from Cienfuegos says that at a general meeting of all the sub committees of the Union Constitutional party in the province of Santa Clara, a resolution was adopted against the establishment of autonomy in virtually the same terms as embodied in the decision of the central committee.

SPAIN'S NAVAL PROJECTS.

The Government Unable to Raise Money to Carry Out Original Plans.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LONDON, November 11.—The Madrid correspondent of the DailyMail says:

"Finding it impossible to raise the sum of three million pounds by loan or tax to carry out its original naval plans, the Government has decided to build two new cruisers only. They will be of 9,000 tons each. It is intended to summon the Cortes as soon as possible in order to obtain credits to build more men-of-war and to place more powerful guns in the existing vessels. The Spanish naval authorities regard the Spanish navy as already superior to the American navy."

The organ of Senor Sagasta, El Correo, says to-day that it is "convinced that the Carlists are only waiting for complications in Cuba to provide them an opportunity for rising."

PULLMAN CAR COMPANY.

Directors' Meeting—Robert T. Lincoln Will Probably be Elected President.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, November 11.—A meeting of the directors of the Pullman Car Company was held to-day. Robert T. Lincoln was elected a director. The most important action taken was the appointment of an executive committee, consisting of H E Halbert, of New York, and Marshall Field and Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago, which will have control of the general affairs of the company. Robert T. Lincoln was selected chairman of the committee. The election of a president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of G M Pullman was postponed. To-day's action, however, practically makes Mr. Lincoln president of the Company.

GULDENSUPPE MURDER

TRIAL OF THORN STOPPED BY ILLNESS OF A JUROR.

A New Jury to be Selected—Mrs. Nack Will Have to Undergo Another Ordeal—Thorn Will Testify That She Planned the Murder and Shot Guldensuppe.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 11.—The trial of Martin Thorn was not resumed to-day, owing to the dangerous illness of juror Magnus Larsen, who is suffering from appendicitis. Three physicians held a consultation this afternoon over his illness and at its conclusion they announced that the only hope of Larsen's recovery lay in an operation. They said that Larsen was in danger of death, and that they had notified his wife. If Mrs. Larsen consents, an operation will be performed at once. In case the operation is a success, it will not be possible for juror Larsen to be up before three weeks. This will probably necessitate the impanelling of a new jury. All the evidence already put in by the prosecution will have to be gone over again, and Mrs. Nack will have to undergo another ordeal. If she refuses to go on the stand, the confession she made yesterday cannot be used against Thorn.

Mr. Howe and Mr. Moss had a brief talk with their client, Thorn, before he was taken back to his cell. Later Mr. Howe outlined his proposed line of defence, which he has been compelled to adopt owing to the confession of Mrs. Nack.

"Thorn will take the stand to-morrow," said Mr. Howe. "He will testify that the murder was conceived and plotted and planned by Mrs. Nack. We shall prove that she wanted to get rid of Guldensuppe in order that Thorn might take his place. Thorn will state that when he got into the cottage at Woodside on June 25th, he found that Mrs. Nack had shot Guldensuppe and that it was she who said, 'I have killed him.' In other words, Thorn is going to tell the whole truth about it—absolutely the whole truth," said Mr. Howe, with a dramatic gesture.

"Will Thorn testify that Mrs Nack took away the head; will he state that it was himself who threw it into the river?" Mr. Howe was asked.

The big lawyer hesitated for a moment and then replied: "Wait till we have got Thorn on the stand to-morrow; he will tell about it."

District Attorney Youngs and Judge A. N. Weller, who have charge of the case for the people, had a conference to-day with Judge Wilmot N. Smith. They were closeted for nearly an hour and after they separated Judge Weller said the prosecution had adopted the following programme: If Juror Larsen be not sufficiently recovered to attend to his duties in the jury box to-morrow (Friday), the people will ask for an adjournment until Monday, and then, if in the opinion of the physicians the juror will not have sufficiently recovered, the district attorney will ask that the present jury be discharged and a new panel be drawn, from which a new jury will be selected immediately and the trial will be pushed through during the present term.

Late this afternoon an operation was successfully performed upon the sick juror, and it is expected that he will be able to leave his bed in two weeks. District Attorney Youngs this evening notified the other eleven jurors to be present in court to-morrow and receive their discharge, and he will then ask the court to call a new jury.

All the evidence for the prosecution, whose case was nearly completed, will have to be introduced again and Mrs. Nack will be required to go on the stand and tell her horrible story anew.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, November 11.—The fourth annual convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy resumed its sessions to-day, holding one in the morning and another at night, the interim being devoted to a reception and tea at the Confederate Soldiers' Home at Pikesville, a suburb of Baltimore.

At the morning session the time was largely devoted to details pertaining to the admission of the grand division of Virginia. It was voted that the division should have a full vote on the floor on all questions. The division joined the United Society as a grand division, not as a chapter. As both organizations have exactly the same aims and objects it was held to be most desirable to consolidate. The only question was as to the manner of the consolidation. The grand division preserves its organization intact, but also pays the usual tax required of each member of the United Society, which entitles every chapter of the grand division to a full representation in the united conventions. The grand division is represented by its president, Mrs. Jas. Mercer Garnett; second vice president, Mrs N V Randolph, president of Richmond chapter; Mrs. E. E. Meredith, president of Manassas chapter; Mrs. A. D. Estill, vice president; Mary Curtis Lee, Lexington, and Mrs. McIlhenny, J. E. Stuart chapter, Staunton.

Upon returning from Pikesville the delegates reassembled at Lehmann's Hall and went into executive session for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. At a late hour to-night they were still in session and it was said that nothing of public interest had as yet been done, and that it was probable that no election would be held until to-morrow morning.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

No New Cases or Deaths at Montgomery—A Slight Increase in New Orleans—One New Case at Mobile but No Deaths.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MONTGOMERY, November 11.—The official report for to-day shows no new case of yellow fever and no death. The city of Montgomery has raised quarantine against Mobile and New Orleans, only requiring health certificates that the person has not been in an infected house within ten days. Baggage must bear certificates of the Marine Hospital service.

NEW ORLEANS November 11.—There is nothing to report in the yellow fever situation to day, except a slight increase in the number of new cases and deaths. The record, however, is regarded with little concern. New cases, twelve; deaths, six.

The Board of Health to-night by resolution abolished all the quarantines of whatsoever nature, both territorial and house, within the confines of its jurisdiction. This does away with all guards in the city, and throws New Orleans open to the world. The Board, by the same resolution, abides by the system of disinfection of infected houses and all personal effects from known infected localities.

MOBILE, ALA., November 11—One new case, no deaths and eight recoveries was the yellow fever record to-day.

In the county, the report to-day is one death.

BLANCO ISSUES A CIRCULAR

Intended to Bring About a Resumption of Planting, Especially of the Sugar Crop in Cuba.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, November 11.—Captain General Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to furnish all the protection necessary to bring about a resumption of general planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout the country, especially in the case of the sugar crop. He further decrees that all the authorities of the island are to lend a conditional support to the proprietors of farms in the efforts of the latter to raise their crops and tend their cattle. The civil authorities are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who are apprehensive of grinding sugar cane, and to offer them assurances and the necessary military forces to protect them and their property. The regions where agriculture is more extended will be specially provided for by all the authorities of all ranks. The latter are authorized to assist all those who are behind in their taxes and to do their utmost to increase the commercial facilities of the planters.

All war measures are abrogated in regard to agricultural implements, machinery, etc., and the right of the railroads to charge 20 per cent. on all freight carried is also done away with.

The government officials throughout the island are instructed to faithfully comply with these instructions, and they are notified that if they show themselves deserving they will be rewarded in accordance with the degree of zeal they have manifested in pushing the work of bringing about a "reconstruction" of the island of Cuba.

Marshal Blanco has abrogated the orders of his predecessor as to the destruction of the fields and huts of the insurgents. He has also cancelled the prohibitions by which the Spanish soldiery have been prevented from camping in the towns. The new orders direct that the soldiers shall be provided with blankets and waterproof coats and that when in camp they shall always be sheltered as far as possible from the rains and dew.

No fewer than 33 000 sick soldiers are now in the hospitals on the island. To-day the mail steamer Isla de Panay, which left Havana for Spain, carried sixty eight officers and five hundred sick soldiers.

OUTRAGE BY WHITE-CAPS.

Brutal Treatment of Two Young Ladies at Oakwood, Ohio.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HOLGATE, OHIO, Nov. 11.—Word reached this city this evening from Oakwood, Ohio, a hamlet fifteen miles south, of an outrage perpetrated last night by white-caps upon two girls, Edith and May Roberts, aged 19 and 17 years of age. Ten days ago the young ladies received a white cap notice warning them to leave the town and county, but they paid no attention to it.

Last evening they retired early. During the night a band of ten men entered their rooms and dragged them in their night robes to the road, where they were terribly whipped by a cat-o nine-tails. After beating the two girls, the white-caps gave them a coat of tar and feathers and took them back to the house, where they were found unconscious this morning. May, the youngest of the two girls, is in a critical condition.

A card containing ten names was found tacked to the front door, but none of the names are known about the place. Bloodhounds were placed upon the trail of the white caps, but owing to heavy rains and the trampling of hundreds of people about the scene the animals were unable to follow the scent. No other clue can be found.

THIRTY PERSONS KILLED.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

ST. PETERSBURG, November 11.—A terrible accident occurred near Bielostok, Russian Poland, resulting in the death of thirty persons. A wedding party was returning from the church to the home of the bride. All were in one wagon, a huge vehicle drawn by eight horses. The road along which they drove crosses the railway track on the level, and the driver, either through carelessness or ignorance of the train schedule, pushed his swiftly moving horses upon the crossing just as the express was coming up. The locomotive struck the vehicle squarely, killing many members of the party outright, and maiming others so that they soon expired. Not a member of the party escaped.

Fred Morris Defeats the Australian Colored Boxer in a 20 Round Contest.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LONDON, November 11—Fred Morris, known as "Muldoon's cyclone", and "Starlight", the Australian colored boxer met to-night for a 20-round contest at Excelsior hall for the middle-weight championship.

Ten rounds were fought and Morris was the winner. Both men did plenty of good punching but there was also a lot of hugging.

It is now understood that Morris will challenge Dick O'Brien, of Boston, to fight a limited number of rounds before the club offering the largest purse.

JOHN EVANS' TRIAL

FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT UPON MISS LILLY COLE.

Evidence Damaging to the Prisoner—General Opinion That the Guilty Party is at the Bar—State Rested its Case and Court Adjourned for The Day.

[Special Star Telegram.]

ROCKINGHAM, November 11.—This morning a special venire of three hundred men appeared at the court house from which a jury was selected to try John Evans for the nameless crime. The entire morning session was consumed in the selection of a jury; it is composed of some of the very best men in the county. The State is represented by Messrs. Shaw, Morrison, Guthrie, Settle, Kelly, Dockery, W. H. Neal, J. T. LeGrand; the defendant, by Dockery & Dockery and Marcy L. John, who were assigned by the court.

Miss Lilly Cole testified that when she started to her work this nameless crime was perpetrated by a negro man. Her sister, who accompanied her, identified the prisoner as the assailant of her sister, giving a description in detail.

C. C. Taylor testified that the prisoner came to his place of business about three-quarters of an hour after the crime was committed; that he was dressed in blue overalls, as Miss Cole described, dirt was on his clothes and he was much excited. Taylor's evidence was very damaging to the prisoner, and Taylor is a man of excellent character.

The general opinion is that the guilty party is at the bar of the Court.

The evidence of the Misses Cole stood the highest test upon cross-examination, and impressed those present with the usual high character they bear in this town.

The residents of this community and the family of the injured girls have not manifested any disposition to make any innocent man suffer, and in every step have shown that they wanted to arrive at the truth.

The Governor's Guards came, and they have been reinforced by the Maxton Guards. The prisoner has been in the court house all day, and the lonely officers have kept their vigil over an empty jail.

Too much cannot be said of our Scotch Judge McIver, who told the captains that he saw bluecoats thirty years ago and he did not need them to run his court. The fact is that the honest yeomanry of this county look up to Judge McIver and will protect the tribunal over which he presides, and he does not need the aid of Daniel's boys to administer the laws of North Carolina in a court where he (McIver) presides.

When Miss Cole was examined everybody was excluded from the court room except those actually engaged in the trial. Some character witnesses were examined, and the State having rested its case, Court adjourned until Friday morning, nine o'clock.

Stockholders' Meeting—Old Board Re-Elected with W. F. Allen in Place of W. R. Tucker—The Ryan Interest Out-Voted.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., November 11.—The stockholders of the Raleigh & Gaston Company elected W. F. Allen a director to succeed W. R. Tucker. All the other directors were re-elected.

At a meeting of stockholders John H. Winder and Hutchinson of New York, said to be representing the Ryan interest, objected to any officer of the road voting his individual stock or proxys. They represented only twenty-one shares and were outvoted on every objection. The opposition demanded a detailed statement of the condition of the road.
